A HISTORIC BUILDING REBORN IN THE CREATIVE HEART OF BERLIN

The restoration of the building located at Oranienplatz in Kreuzberg, which belongs to the German Register of Historic Places, was undertaken to revive the innovative idea of the Oranienpalast Café which opened its doors originally in 1913 and featured regular concerts from artists living in Berlin. Elegant and eclectic, Orania.Berlin reflects the lively district of Kreuzberg, situated in the cultural heart of the city, 41 spacious rooms & suites are defined by natural materials and a subtle Eastern motif.

Complexity and contradiction in the architecture and design create an open atmosphere in which both local residents as well as global nomads can feel equally welcome without borders. Live concerts by Berlin artists are regular events in this cozy gathering place designed for arts, entertainment, dialogue and discussion. A highlight of head chef & managing director Philipp Vogel's cosmopolitan cuisine is the well-known Xberg Peking duck - made in four courses with a cultural twist of the melting pot Kreuzberg.
